ANNOUNCEMENT

George Bertsch Retires

George Bertsch of the University of Washington is retiring from the senior Editorship of Reviews of Modern Physics. George has been leading RMP for the past ten years, and under his guidance the journal has increased its influence and become the world's foremost physics review journal. George's broad knowledge, along with his energy and wisdom, have enabled him and his Associate Editors to attract eminent authors and first-rate articles. He leaves the journal in a secure and admirable position, and we are grateful to him.

Martin Blume
Editor-in-Chief
American Physical Society

Stanley G. Brown
Editorial Director
American Physical Society

ANNOUNCEMENT

Achim Richter Assumes RMP Editorship

It is a pleasure to announce the appointment of Achim Richter of Technische Universität Darmstadt as the senior Editor of Reviews of Modern Physics. Achim's broad research interests include nuclear structure and nuclear reactions, atomic physics, accelerator physics, nuclear astrophysics, and nonlinear dynamics. He served under George Bertsch as an Associate Editor of RMP from 1995 to 2001. With our fully electronic editorial process, it is now possible and entirely appropriate for our highly international journals to have a senior Editor based in Germany. A search committee chaired by Robert Siemann of SLAC made the recommendation from among several excellent candidates. We look forward to the continuation, under Achim Richter's leadership, of the outstanding journal that is Reviews of Modern Physics.

Martin Blume
Editor-in-Chief
American Physical Society

Stanley G. Brown
Editorial Director
American Physical Society